

The Distorteddia: The Fall Off The Criterion: The Final Frontier of Dehumanisation of Humanity and Its Consequences

|| February 14: 2019: Download This Piece in PDF || á. We have set out, in our earlier piece, how the Distorteddia have gone about taking on the agency of the human mind and how they have sought to eradicate it and, with it, they have taken The Criterion down, which can, only, be used by an agency of the human mind, since, the agency is taken off, The Criterion has no use at all. Without The agency and The Criterion, humanity, that existed as prospect of an infinity unfolding itself in these states, on which the entire spectrum of all virtues, that comprised humanity reside and arise out of: these states are i: imagination, ii: creativity, iii: ingenuity, iv: learning, v: empathy, vi: sympathy, vii: bond, viii: love and ix: sense of oneness. These are the nine-realms of humanity, spread in prospects for humanity to seek to unfold: an infinity unfolding itself. Therefore, when the agency of the human mind is gone and, with it, The Criterion, there is neither the 'home' nor the home-keeper left to mind the house or lead it towards becoming a home, the house falls to disrepair. It falls apart. This falling apart is happening to us under the current distorteddia's ferocious and all-engulfing war against humanity. This is the ultimate state of dehumanisation. What are the consequences of the falling off The Criterion? The Criterion was the good; it has been taken off and replaced by the other end of the good: the sociology of evil, that eats away into transforming the social ecology from a civic one into a jingoistic one. Without the Criterion the human physiologies have no sense of good in anything or anyone. The absence of The Criterion means that the person, who has lost the personhood or the agency of the human mind, now, dehumanises herself:himself: there, thus, comes into effect a destruction, elimination and eradication of what goes in the psyche with the application of The Criterion: the lost person's absence or the physiology now finds no value in itself. There goes the sense of self-worth, there goes the sense of being an entity of and for good, there goes the sense of self-esteem, there goes the sense of seeking to be and do good and with them, there goes the self-confidence and, thus, this, personless person or, the void, has now fully lost all connections to humanity. This physiology is now no good and good for nothing else other than being consumers and being commodities themselves, being bought and sold and being used to buy and sell and in this, these entities are seeking to 'gain' advantages in terms of how much and how far they can consume by 'selling' themselves in vary many newly invented manner and form of 'selling' and it has now no self-worth, no self-esteem, no self-confidence and no aim, no objective. Once, someone has reached this state, their dehumanisation of themselves have been complete. Now, that they place no value or no worth in themselves nor do they place any obligation, responsibility and duty on them of being and doing good, they can now go about dehumanising the rest of humanity. One, that has no respect for one's own very self, that one, does not know and can not know how to show respect to anything or anyone for that matter. This process of dehumanisation now is transposed onto the rest of humanity and the void of self or our physiologies go about responding to, the only thing we now know, consuming. Keep on consuming.

This is why the entire distorteddia is filled with all these negativities and the entire of their illusory domain is poisonous for everyone is doing and behaving the same dehumanised way: same in the sense that these are all actions of the same void of person, of humanity and captured and directed by the same dehumanisation.

And the distorted media conglomerate have given out a script and all are following it every second of every minute and every day and every night. The distorted media say that you share contents: what are contents: texts, images, cartoons and videos and mix and match and games etc. Why should anyone, who is not a person or, rather, a void of a person, have anything to share? This person, were she:he a person, would have a life, an existence, in which they would have had the chance to exist as a human being and be and do things to express that humanity and, only, then, they will have something to share with others? They have been made to cease to do that. Further, why does a person share anything with people, who are nothing to them, who not only do not know them but, also, are, almost, guaranteed to remain unknown to them nor would the person ever get to, even, meet any of them in reality? Why would this category ever want to read their texts, look at their images and watch their videos? What is the point of it? In other words, when a human being is an agency of the human mind of humanity she:he does and become that humanity in their life and, therefore, they have a wealth of 'gifts' or 'offerings' to the rest of humanity, which they can, do and should share for they have endless 'riches' to give, which they have made by their existence, being and doing. Humanity has this infinity of riches to give out, to share with the fellow humanion. Because we have been robbed off that pathway to create that riches to give out we have nothing to share with anyone other than the lack or poverty, created by the absence of that human imagination, creativity and ingenuity etc and the distorted media conglomerate and all their inventions are the means, by which, we share these 'poverties' with those, who are as poor as we, each one of us, are.

The Consequences of The Fall Off The Criterion

Neglecting All That One Ought to Do In Order to Conduct One's Self and Keep That Self in Good State of Being and Doing: this resulted in this person, finding it impossible to find enough time and space to do 'nothing' in the Distorted media pseudo-real, in which, one wastes one's entire times, spaces, scopes, opportunities, resources and energies into doing and being nothing other than, looking at all, that are offered for 'consumption': visiting pages of the groups and channels one is subscribed to in many a system and mechanism, about any of which, one has no power to know enough to see who are running a so-called 'platform', why are they running it and what are they seeking to do and, most importantly, who finance them and why. And, apparently, everything is offered 'free' for apparent consumption; except, nothing is free: someone is paying for it, someone is making money of it and others are advancing their agendas through it and others are using this to advertise and sell and promote their products and services and, thus, make bucket-loads of money and, we, the physiologies, think, these all are free. In reality, all these free stuffs are costing us our existence while everyone else of the distorted media is making a killing on our expense: this expense is our human existence and our very self and our very agency of the human mind. Yet, this person is subscribed to hundreds of such groups and channels and outlets and platforms, through them, one is in receipt of so much conflicting, unverifiable, unreliable, questionable, malicious and gossipy materials, among which, feature fabrications, falsehoods, lies, mythologies and concoctions of all kinds, including, absolutely horrendous and ever-going and ever-increasing flood of conspiracy theories, that promote extreme racist, xenophobic, misogynistic, chauvinistic, supremacist and horrendous filths, all of which, attack science, mathematics, evidence and common sense and provide opinion fascism as means to validate all, that are being presented as truth, that, soon, by the sheer number of clicks, become 'the high-truth', that are nothing but utter fabrications at best and, at worst, absolute and dangerous lies. Further, all these, are used to attack and continuously seek to try to destroy historic truth and continue to build-up a parallel conspiratorial version of a dangerous, deadly and toxic narrative. All these are advancing and fuelling a horrendously ugly, violently extreme and crass and vulgar form of nationalism of many a kind, that are racist and xenophobic in nature and character. Further, all these, make a valid course of political action, determined to keep the vigour, against the established professional, bona fide, verifiable and authentic journalism, news, media and press agencies and outlets, as well as, attacking all things, values and ideals, that sustain democracy, human rights, civil liberties, equality and anti-discriminatory approaches, democratic practices and culture, rule of law and the proper functioning of the judiciary and all other related ideals and take on and seek to destroy the facts and evidence by sheer 'concoctions' and opinion fascism. Yet, the person, who is subscribed to these groups and outlets in the Distorteddia does not and can not have the power, time and space and ability to ascertain any of it. But they are in subscription so that they spend a great deal of their time visiting these pages and channels, reading texts, that are generated by other users of that platform, watching videos and other types of audio-visual types of presentations. Then, one has many 'people' following one so that one must read, see and watch anything, that is sent to their phone. In all likelihood it is impossible for someone to be able to find the physical time to do a quarter of this because there are not enough hours in a day.

In this, therefore, they are unable to give proper attention and consideration to what one has 'read', 'seen' and 'watched' or 'browsed'. In seeking to do all this, this person, must, 'steal' time from some place and, in this, they go about, first, stealing the time they must have to 'look after themselves'. They wilfully neglect their personal life, personal health and hygiene. They stop cleaning and washing and looking after their home, they neglect cooking and eating and drinking and, more and more, they try to 'swallow' food and drink and, often, these are after thoughts and are consumed on the go, on the bus, on the tube or train and, the items are, often, ordered take-aways, fast and unhealthy foods and drinks. None of which serves one with nutritional diets. They sleep less and, whatever amount of sleep they have is the lowest and poorest quality of sleep and they spend less time in the pursuits, that people, individuals, families and communities used to do. That does not give them enough of the 'stolen' times they need to gather so that they go about stealing times from when they are walking, waiting at public transport, buses and tubes and trains and from all these spaces they steal more time because they are just passing through, they are not there, they are utterly and completely off their reality and they pass through without looking, without seeing, without hearing, without touching, without smelling and reaching or receiving or registering and responding to the reality. They do not have any sense of the places and spaces they have been 'going through'. In this, they lost any touch and connection to reality and with it the humanity, that is there in these realities; they do not register people, even, those, who are serving them, they do not speak, they do not have a conversation. Because they are always 'browsing' the texts, the images and watching videos while on the bus, on the train, walking or any other place, particularly, when at home so that they, might, as well, be not there. This cuts them off the reality, almost, entirely. This, further takes them away from their reality so that they are strangers where they live: they do not know the area, the locality and where things are nor do they get to know any real people and all this leaves them alone, cut out and lonely and disconnected and disjointed and, therefore, they lack confidence in or sense of ownership of wherever they are supposed to live. They do not know where the Shakespeare Street is from the St Katherine Avenue, both of which, may, meet at a junction, where there is a community centre, from where their supposed home is few hundred metres away. No one knows and, thus, no one can have confidence or sense of ownership to where one lives. Not only this, when people do not know people it is very likely that they have no relation of any kind with these people so that it is easier to be impersonal and indifferent about all these people and, this, in turn, makes it easier to treat them 'underhandedly' or in a dehumanised ways and manners whereas it is, generally, very likely that one would and does find it difficult to be, say, rude to someone, they know. Now, we all are and can be rude with anyone. In fact, our selected 'auto-mode' is at being hostile, angry, abusive, aggressive and violently rude to everyone and anyone. That's the mode of going about in this state of physiologies.

This, still, does not give them enough 'stolen' times they, must, have so that they now go and 'steal' more time from their work, wherever they are working, they do the same. They neglect their work and 'steal' work time and spend it in pursuing their 'connected disconnections'. This ruins the quality of their works, which makes them unhappy, even, more. And, this effects their productivity and combined together, this all goes and degrades the total productivity of the national economy.

They, still, do not have enough 'stolen' time, that they, must, have so that they find other ways to 'steal' time: they look and begin neglecting all their duties, that means spending less times in discharging their responsibilities, obligations and duties and they keep on neglecting these more and more so that whoever is or are at the receiving end of these neglects suffer the consequences. They cut themselves off from family members, friends and all other human connections. They stopped socialising with them, spending time with them, going out together or spending time with them in other social and cultural opportunities. They stop going out as much as possible and in doing all this, they are, always, alone and lonely and disconnected and they, tend to like it more so that the tendency is to remain and stay alone and lonely and at the receiving end of the endless flowing sociological 'disjunctures', being thrown onto their 'glass' of life and its water keeps getting muddy and messy and blackened-up as the day goes, which is getting toxic by every hours of all the pseudo but toxic incomings: the texts, the images, the cartoons, the illusory other concoctions and endless videos and so on and all this makes the person, void of any contributions from living and being a person, being in private with their own self, from being with the family and all the networks of families, being with friends and forming, nurturing and maintaining social, cultural and other types of relationships etc, real memories of thinking, of analysing, of learning, of developing, of emotions, of feelings, of smells, of touch, of hearing and of remembering and many other things, that arise out of one's real existence in reality among and with real humanity and, instead of all these, the pseudo-memories are created and deposited in this glass, which are all unreal and illusory and negative so that this person ends up being 'the dustbin' to keep on gathering pseudo-memories, that are unable to support a person and that are corrosive, toxic and poisonous and all this keeps on tearing this person's being and existence away and apart. Further, since, this person has, effectively, ceased to be a person, they are becoming more and more pseudo as the more they keep on going the less connections they seem to form, keep or grow or maintain so that they have more pseudo in them than real. All this is infinitely punctuated and amplified by the fact that this person ceases to exist as a person and, therefore, this person has no record of being and doing that existence. This, therefore, is the tragedy that this person has exchanged their being and doing a human existence with an illusory distorted unreality or pseudo-real, in and by which, this void of person keeps erasing the very tiny part of them, that is still real and keeps filling that erased out reality with that pseudo-real, corrosive, toxic pseudo-real 'disjunctures'. They do not have anything real to remember: they remember a video they watched of someone doing something or rather not doing anything, which someone is not known to them and they have no way of knowing this person in reality. They remember that instead of remembering a real person, a friend in reality. They do not remember anything real because they have had no time to gather these real memories so that they do not, even, have any feeling of feeling any real emotion.

The route of living and existence with a human existence as individual in families and with and among friends and colleagues and all other acquaintances in real life and in real communities and in real society would have given this person all that, which this person has lost and, instead of this, the greatest and saddest of all, this person now fills oneself with all these pseudo-real distorted 'disjunctures', that are corrosive, toxic and negative, with which, one finds that one is infinitely placed in the domain of gathering all features, characteristics, traits, qualities, that constitute the sociology of evil: all the negativity at the worse end: All this burns away, scalds away, tears away, cuts away, beats away, drags away, culls away, eats away, breaks away and destroys away this human person twenty-four-seven, who has been losing in the pseudo real of the distorted the very humanity, with which, they could have become and existed as an infinity unfolding itself.

These devastations done to them by the distorted have created a monstrous domain in these pseudo-real spheres, where we find the entire spectrum of all the negativities, that arise out of dehumanisation of humanity and, there people are behaving and conducting themselves whatever way they want for there is no Criterion any longer, that, always, relates to a person, an individual, a human agency of the human mind. But the worse is not just there, now, there has been added the mechanisms in these distorted so that a great deal of these so-called 'accounts' are created and run by 'bots' or 'machines and no one in the distorted can know what is done by humans and what is by these machines. Added to this, all the obnoxious and terrible forces of all kinds have got in there and using the distorted tools to advance their horrendous concoctions and all these have been devastating and strangling the legitimate, valid, bona fide, professional, verifiable and authentic news, press and media outlets in all forms and mediums: print, online, radio and television in all their expressions: international, national, supra-national, regional, provincial and local outlets and a great many of them have, already, been lost and a great many are struggling to survive. This has created a void, in which the distorted have been 'fishing in muddy water' and making trillions of dollars, that they have force-directed away from these bona fide press, media and news outlets and they have been pocketing these trillions while the all the obnoxious, horrendous and terrible dark forces have been using this opportunity to advance their dark agenda, that wants to establish, what is, essentially, the sociology of evil.

This is not all: the entire democratic architecture is being threatened by all this. Everywhere the obnoxious and horrible forces are advancing and taking over the mainstream of politics and societies. The established democratic values, culture and systems are being threatened as these forces try to use the distorted to advance their agenda and, if, these continue, the entire world and world humanity face the final tragedy of 'losing' their Criterion: that representative form of democracy is an ideal, that there is available, that best serves, regardless of its limitations, the rule of law, the proper and transparent governance etc so that there are elections held but no one knows which forces are manipulating, directing and herding the public for whatever hidden agenda they want to impose. That darkness is not unreal and the prospect of this dangers is ever-increasing its might.

Further to this: although, all these negativities and horrendous expressive resultants of the loss of the human agency of the human mind, the loss of the Criterion or due to the dehumanisation of humanity, in which this dehumanised, horrible, hostile, horrid and vile a pseudo realm has been created by the distorted in their illusory realms, they did not and do not remain there. They are brought over and onto reality: changing the entire human conducts, behaviours and way of engagements, manner of interactions and culture of discourse and all these are imported onto reality so that all agencies, regardless of who or what they are and all humanity, in them, are finding the real life's reality and the entire ecology have been transformed by all these horrendous, horrid and vile negativities, which are the architecture of the sociology of evils. These horrors are unfolding everywhere and all-where across the earth and these will continue unless and until we wake up and realise what have been happening and how far and how deep these all have gone and how that shattered the very foundation, architecture and orientation of humanity, human conduct, human behaviour or, rather, how the very humanity or the very quality, very essence, the very feature, the very architecture of our very humanity is threatened with such vile force, such ferocity, such mandatory a manner, that has been unprecedented in the entire history and development of humanity.

This can, can, only, be seen as the revival of the old feudal lordship culture where all people are 'owned' by the feudal lord or all people are the feudal lord's subjects, who subject all of them to her:his whims. The entire world and all its bodies and agencies, states, governments, legislatures, international bodies, agencies and organisations, banks, financial and trade bodies, universities, learning and research agencies and all other form and manner of organisations from a Kebab shop to an Institute of Moral Philosophy all have fallen in line in accepting this revived Feudal Lordship of the Distorteddia and all of them, must, now, get their 'blessings' and pay them their 'mandatory tax' and promote them by unquestioning support, promotion, advertising, legitimising, validating and advancing the interests at all times. This way the Distorteddia have gone into and found acceptance and made themselves 'fashionable', by which, they 'recruited' all the users of the distorteddia and we all: both all organisations of all types and kinds and all people as individuals have fallen under and accepted the mandatory imposition of the revived Feudal Lordship of the distorteddia conglomerate and let them destroy and devastate and dehumanise us so that they can keep on making money and taking that money off the people, off the system and pocketing them and in the process sucking the life-blood out of all economies, killing the most necessary free and independent press, media and news outlets and devastating democracies and impacting and challenging the proper functioning of the rule of law in the due process and the list of their harms is, almost, going to be an infinite one. Therefore, humanity, wake up before it is too late, which, now, stands as, almost, too late. Wake up and dismantle these distorteddia to reclaim our humanity and our human existence and all, which we ought to value to the highest.:::ω.
